

Digital Literature

A.M. Chaminda Kumara¹

The origin and the conclusion of the Communication History is cannot be specifically defined. Despite that, communication history is being developed in generation to generation. In the initial stage of communication, it is existed by signals, symbols, printing method, photography, cinema and television. As a result of Computer technology invention it has been improved as digital communication what is existing in today. This objective of this study is analyze Digital literature which has been developed by Digital technology. The study is conducted with the special reference to “Mosam Sanda” Blog page of Mr. Manjula Wediwardhana, who is known as very famous blogger. The methodologies of this study are Interview method and Blog page content analytical methods. In conclusion, this study is identified that the blog pages are doing paly major role for the digital literature. Furthermore, the experiences and concepts achieved by social, political and economic circumstances would contribute to create a digital reader. Finally this study illustrates that blog page is maintain by Tamil poems, new poems and songs as well.

Key words: Literature, Technology, Poem, Digital reader

¹ Assistant Lecturer, Department of Mass Communication, Faculty of Social Sciences, University of Kelaniya.