

in the tea small sector. Variety of tea, soil condition and rainfall came as individual variables which effect tea production in smallholders. Introduce new varieties, provide standard Aid Price for green leaves, Dispose of public policies, and provide insurance cover for farmers, Implementation of fertilizer loan scheme, distributing fertilizer, provision of support services such as providing planting material, utensils and transport facilities for increasing tea production.

Keywords: Tea, smallholders, present scenario, national production

References

Central Bank, (2018) (2017)(2016). Annual Report, Colombo

Tea small Holdings Development Authority (2016). Annual Report, Baththramulla

Tea small Holdings Development Authority (2017). Annual Report, Baththramulla

Bandula, G.G., Abeywickrama L.M., Zoysa & Mangala.(2017). Factors Influencing the Replantation of the Small Holdings in Sri Lanka: Journal of Advances in Social Science and Humanities. Available at :<https://www.researchgate.net>

Biggs, Eloise., Gupta, M., Sikia., Sukanya, D. & Dunvan.(2018). Tea Production Characteristics of Tea Growers (Plantations ang Smallholdings) and Livelihood Dimensions of tea workers in Assam, India. Data in Brief, 17, 1379-1387. Available at: <https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pubmed/29556521>

Thushara, S. (2015). Sri Lankan Tea Industry: Prospects and Challenges. Proceedings of the Second Middle East Conference on Global Business, Economics, Finance and Banking (ME15Dubai Conference) Dubai-UAE, Volme Paper ID: D533. Available at :https://www.researchgate.net/publication/280917772\_Sri\_Lankan\_Tea\_Industry\_Prospects\_and\_Challenges