

The Problem of Violence and Human Right violation in Global Sport

Weerakoon Ranjan

Lecturer

Department of Sport Science and Physical Education

University of Kelaniya

Sri Lanka

ranjan@kln.ac.lk

Jayawardhana Anupa

Lecturer

Department of Sport Science and Physical Education

University of Kelaniya

Sri Lanka

anupa@kln.ac.lk

CITATION: Ranjan, W & Anupa, J (2015).The Problem of Violence and Human Right violation in Global Sport. International Journal of Social Science and Entrepreneurship, 4(4), 215-226.

ABSTRACT

Sport is playing an important role in current global world which is universal language of spreading ethical values throughout the world. At present, sport has become professional after the globalization. Therefore, there are slowly disappeared core ethical values in sport which leads to increased violence and violation within the sport. The objectives of this paper are i) to identify types of violence in global sport. ii) To understand the cause and effect of violence in sport. iii) To exam the possible solution for violence in global sport. This research was used literature review method to analysing for researchdata. The research has identified types of violence such as player violence, spectator violence, terrorist violence, human right violations which are affected to certain area of social life such as international relations, social wellbeing, attitude of young sport players, damage to human life and property. In addition research was given possible solution for the violence in global sport.