

Attitude of a person helps to predict their future behavior. It shows that attitudes, values and feelings, developed at the childhood directly affect in creating a mindset. Along with this mindset, different experience, knowledge and skills gain as a corporate leader was instrumental for these entrepreneurs to excel in their entrepreneurial career.

In Sri Lankan context, it is an interesting phenomena to analyze whether intention develop in the minds at the childhood is strongly associated with the outcome of the life.